A – Very effective independent work, material shows planning, commitment, exploration and discovery. Perseverance evident in planning and research stages of the project and in account of the process, particularly due to the range of activities.

B – Considerable level of skill evident with a good understanding of the demands of chosen area, particularly the range of considerations required.

C – Connections to the course as well as additional areas of inspiration. Reflection is sustained and critical in places for what is a difficult project for SL. Clear evidence of learning and development.

D – Register fully appropriate, materials well selected and presented, though sources chosen relatively well, rather than inventively.
